What is an ICO file? ICO files are a standard format designed to store icons (also called icon files). ICONS file format was developed by Microsoft, and first introduced with Windows Vista. The filename of an ICO file usually ends with ".ico". Advantages of using ICO files: - The ICO files are compressed, which allows smaller icons to be used. - There is no need to use a third-party plug-in or other software to produce the icons. - The icons can be produced quickly and easily in any program. - The format is already part of Windows, so everything works. What to make sure when creating an ICO file? - The ICO files must have a transparent background. They should be 24 bit color and 8 bit transparent. - The color in the icon must have a good contrast with the background. - The icon must be at least 48 pixels tall and 24 pixels wide. - The first 4 characters of the filename must be "C0", "F0", "N0", "O0" - The first line of the ICO file should be the header line, which usually contains an introductory description, the file type and the size. - The first line should be 8 spaces long - The ICO files are saved as PNG files. Every ICO file has its own ID, which can be used to uniquely identify an icon within an ICO file. Each icon has an internal ID. This is used to identify icons within the file. You can use the Id as a hexadecimal number. For instance, to identify a specific icon in a ICO file: "C0F0N0O0" The ID can be used as a file descriptor (ex. filetrans_mac.txt). The exact meaning of the file is: "filetrans_mac.txt" For example, you can use the ID as a Mac file identifier: "5a906bd9-5ea9-11de-80c6-a63e13c2e5c9" In order 77a5ca646e
